To the lady first correctly guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to The Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

In the United States and foreign lands he has sown the seed of beauty and productivity. If you pluck a flower in an Austrian garden or dine on fruit and vegetables in Alberta or Baluchistan, it's an even bet the firm of which he is the senior furnished the planter with the first essentials. We have missed him from our midst for a time, during which he has been fostering another great enterprise, and the news of his return has a welcome ring. He is a lover of flowers, deriving pleasure from their extensive culture. He knows a kilowatt when he meets it on the street, perhaps somewhat to his sorrow, but citizens hold in grateful remembrance the fact that he sought to reduce the cost of lights and shocks. He wants everybody to adopt his policy of safeguarding the future by paying a premium in the present, and so persuasive has been that everybody's doing it. If there is method in his business, there also is in his religion, for he's a follower of Wesley, and inhabits the amen corner with pious regularity. Take him for all in all, he's a man worth while to himself, to his family, to his community and to the age to which he contributes the efforts of a whole-some and useful life.

Votes For Women Is Not Home Smasher

Mr. Editor: In this campaign for equal suffrage it is interesting to note the opinions of both men and women both for and against the movement, and those who are indifferent; for opinions they are, and not arguments; because they usually admit that they have not thought much about it, in fact, have not listened to or read anything on the subject. Argument to be effective, must be based on a knowledge of both sides of a question in order to know what to avoid as well as what to present on that particular question. Mere opinions carry no weight with a thinking public.

To the opinion of some that the family will be disrupted if equal suffrage obtains, the evident answer is that it has not worked out that way in equal suffrage states. It seems to be the idea with a few that if a man and his wife cannot agree and insist upon voting for different candidates, there will be trouble in that family at once. But why so? A father and son may not agree, two or more brothers may not agree; but that does not create a feud between or among them; each goes to the polls and votes his own way and that is the end of it. Why need a man and his wife have any more trouble than that? If they wish to vote the same way, that is all right; so do fathers and sons; so do brothers, and so on. It will take more than that to get many into the divorce courts. Statistics will show that there are more divorces granted each year in Wisconsin than in Wyoming, Colorado or California. Women do not vote in Wisconsin.

The opinion entertained by some that only women should vote who pay taxes is erroneous. A gentleman said to me that women should vote who pay taxes, and what was more, no man should vote who does not pay taxes. It seems that that state of affairs should not obtain. His idea seemed to be that people who rent houses are a movable class and so take little interest in the kind of government of a place in which they expect to live but a short time. But that is not always the case. Suppose, for instance, that some families are going to move and have the power to select their next place of abode; are they not likely to select a well-governed place with a good name; and should they not have the right to help keep it so while there? But they do pay taxes. Landlords expect

SHOULD AULD ACQUAINTANCE BE FORGOTTEN

Dr. John R. Kevan, of New York, is a physician and surgeon by profession and carries soldiering as a side line. Dr. Kevan was born in La Crosse, and received his early education in the public schools. He played marbles and hooked with John C. Burns, classmate and pal, and pursued the career of a normally healthy and mischievous youngster. Young Kevan in youth was possessed of two ambitions. He wanted to be a doctor and he wanted to be a soldier. He couldn't be happy with either dear charmer away, so he committed the polygamist performance of wedding two callings. Some years before his departure from La Crosse, which took place in 1881, Mr. Kevan joined the La Crosse Light Guard. This company was the first military organization of its kind in this part of the state, and with its kind formed the forerunner of the present national guard. In 1881 Kevan cast his bread upon the waters and jumped in after it. He "fetched up" in New York, where he entered Bellevue hospital and for three years pursued the study of medicine. Following two years as an attendant he was admitted to practice, and for the past twenty-five years he has followed his profession with flattering and ever increasing success until today he enjoys the reputation of being one of the leading doctors of the metropolis. But Dr. Kevan never became convinced that the stethoscope is mightier than the sword. Shortly after his arrival in New York he enlisted in a militia company, and he still is active in militia circles. Several times he has been called into active service during the various strike riots of New York. Recently Dr. Kevan visited La Crosse and renewed old acquaintances, solacing himself for the temporary loss of his afternoons at the Polo Grounds by watching the Outcasts in action. In fact, Dr. Kevan was heard to admit that Giants didn't have anything on the Outcasts—much.

ESCH'S FRIENDS AROUSED OVER DAHL CHARGES

Question of Congressman's Interest in Government Land Purchase Is Raised

M'COY MAKES A STATEMENT

Says Esch Acted as Public Official in Performance of Public Duty

PROGRESSIVES INDIGNANT

Declare Charges Will Act as Boomerang Against Candidacy of Dahl

Indignant at what they term the questionable tactics of some of the friends of A. H. Dahl, candidate against John J. Esch for the republican nomination for congress from the seventh district, many progressive republicans are up in arms today over a statement which is being circulated among the voters of La Crosse. Freely asserting that the insinuations, which almost assume the nature of direct charges of dishonesty against Congressman Esch, will act as a boomerang to the injuring of Dahl's cause, several progressives, who have up to this time preferred to keep out of the fight, asserted that they would use every ounce of their influence to procure Mr. Esch's nomination.

The charges that are arousing the indignation of Mr. Esch's friends, are: that he is a stalwart; that he is receiving the support of only the stalwarts, and that the transactions whereby the government acquired the federal reservation near Sparta were arranged and affected through the personal friendship of Congressman Esch and Col. Robert McCoy. It was insinuated that the government paid an extraordinary price for this land to the financial benefit of Col. McCoy and that this was made possible through the influence of Mr. Esch.

Charges Are Copied.
A direct statement of the charges was taken down in shorthand and turned over to Mr. Esch today by District Attorney Thompson. The statement was made by a Mr. Graff who presented a letter of introduction from Mr. Dahl and announced himself as the secretary of Mr. Dahl's personal campaign committee. Mr. Graff is said to have come from Madison.

"Mr. Graff came in my office and represented himself as secretary of Dahl's campaigning committee," said Mr. Thompson today. "He at once launched into his argument why Esch should not receive the nomination. He said that Mr. Esch is a stalwart and is receiving the support of only stalwarts. He followed this up by the following statement which I made him repeat and copied down in shorthand: 'Mr. Sowle of Tomah told me that Col. McCoy bought land between Sparta and Tomah at prices ranging from a couple of dollars an acre and then sold it to the government for $12 an acre. Col. McCoy and Mr. Esch are well acquainted and close friends. Draw your own conclusions.'

Honesty Above Question.
"Tactics of this sort in my opinion will only result in an overwhelming defeat for Mr. Dahl. I have known Mr. Esch for many years and know that his honesty is above question."

Mr. Thompson declared that from now to the primaries he will use every means in his power to promote Mr. Esch's candidacy.

When shown the statement made by Mr. Dahl's alleged campaign secretary, Congressman Esch said: "I have heard that insinuation before and I know that it is being circulated generally over the district. All I can say is that it is absolutely untrue and without justice. As a matter of fact I am out of pocket through my work to procure the federal reservation for the state of Wisconsin. I could have had nothing to do with the fixing of the price of the land because that was done by officers in the war department. It does not seem right that when a man uses his best efforts to benefit his state and district that his motives should be impugned. I do not know Mr. Graff or whether Mr. Dahl is responsible for what he says, but I am sure that such campaign methods will not appeal to the fair minded voter."

McCoy Denies Charges.
Denying absolutely that Mr. Esch received any benefit, financial or otherwise, through the transactions in which the Sparta range became government property, Col. Robert McCoy of Sparta made the following statement over the long distance telephone today:

Col. McCoy's Statement
"I am a republican.
"I am a democrat.
"I have been interested in national guard matters for sixteen years at

NORMAL PREPARES FOR UNIVERSITY

Two Year Courses in La Crosse School Receive Full Credit in Colleges

ADVANTAGE TO STUDENTS

Able to Save Money and Receive Better Instruction Here than in Madison

Following out the policy adopted by the state board of normal regents and the board of regents of the state university two years ago, the La Crosse normal school, when it opens September 3, will offer a full two years course in four branches which, until last year, were handled exclusively by the university at Madison. The university courses that will be available at the normal this year are: two years in letters and science; two years in the commerce course; two years preparation for law or journalism; and sixty-four credits in the college of agriculture. The last course lacks just one study, that of bacteriology, of being the full two years course. Besides this the La Crosse normal will offer the freshmen university course in engineering.

In each of these courses the student graduating from the La Crosse normal will receive full credit at the university of Wisconsin, and it may be added that these courses also receive accredited recognition of the other universities and colleges of this section of the country just as if the student had attended the university of Wisconsin itself.

One Year in Engineering

The freshman course in engineering through a misunderstanding on the part of some of the university officials, did not receive credit at the university last year. It was the contention of the university instructor in mathematics in the engineering department that the La Crosse normal course in mathematics was not up to the standard of that offered at the university. Following a conference between the university instructor and W. A. Austin, instructor in mathematics at the La Crosse normal, recently it was shown that the university course is duplicated at the normal and is taught exactly the same in method and scope. As a result the normal course in engineering will receive full credit at the university this year.

The freshman year in all of these courses was offered at the local institution last year and met with signal success. The sophomore year in the four courses will be given for the first time this year and will be continued from now on. The La Crosse normal is the only one in the state that offers the engineering course.

Advantages to Student

The university course at the normal school offers peculiar advantages to the student, especially in the freshman and sophomore years, in that it is possible to give direct instruction and supervision to each and every student. This is impossible at the university itself because of the overcrowding of these classes. It is necessary to subdivide the classes at the university and place the divisions under the supervision of student instructors. It goes without saying that the student does not receive the careful training under such conditions as he does at the normal school where he is in personal touch with the instructor in each study of the course.

The university courses in the La Crosse normal offer another great advantage to the students living in the city and this community in the matter of expense. A student at the normal school should be able to save enough money on the two years' courses here to pay his way through the university the two years necessary to complete the course. It is a well known fact that the cost of living in La Crosse is lower than in any city its size in the state. Work is easily obtained by those who wish to work their way through school and the student living in the city can save several hundred dollars a year on board, lodging and the other necessities supplied by the home. Parents can do more for their children and at a much lower expense at home than if they could if the children were at Madison or any other college.

Good Instructors Here

The class of instructors employed in the La Crosse normal school is second to none in the state not even excepting those at the university. The courses which are now being offered to students at the normal school are those which are open to college graduates and the two year country school course which is open to graduates of the eighth grade in public schools. The elementary four and five year course has been abolished and the school has been put on a high school basis from now on.

There are two courses offered to high school graduates who can take either the college or the teachers' courses. They can take a two years

PROGRESSIVES CALL JOHN ESCH A PROGRESSIVE

Attack of Dahl's Friends Draws Statement from La Follette Leaders Supporting Congressman

MAKES A STRONG SHOWING

Most Local Leaders Unite in Standing by Candidate Who Leads in Humanitarian Laws

RECITES RECORD OF ESCH

Statement Unqualifiedly Endorses Member and Commits Signers to His Support

The first step taken by the friends of Hon. John J. Esch to offset the attack of his foes and answer the "roll call" is a statement signed by progressive leaders in La Crosse and Monroe counties declaring their faith in Mr. Esch and endorsing him as a progressive and as a valuable legislator, especially in the big and important field of humanitarian legislation. The statement is being circulated also in Jackson and Clark counties, the remaining counties of the old Seventh district. It will receive liberal support in both.

Among the prominent men who have signed the statement are Thomas Morris, lieutenant governor, Assemblyman J. E. McConnell, E. M. Wing, Frank P. Coburn and S. W. Brown of La Crosse county, and Senator Howard Teasdale, C. M. Beebe and W. T. Saries of Monroe county. A score of others equally prominent have signed in the two counties.

The statement, with a partial list of the signers in La Crosse and Monroe counties, follows:

John J. Esch was first elected to congress in 1898 and has been six times renominated without opposition in the old Seventh, the strongest progressive district in the state. During this time he has acquired experience and influence of great value to his district. He is a member of important committees, including that on interstate and foreign commerce.

Mr. Esch was one of the pioneers in reform railroad legislation. He was the author of the Esch bill, the basis of the present law giving to the interstate commerce commission the power to fix railroad rates, a power which the commission had been demanding for many years. He also introduced and secured the passage of the present law giving the commission power to prescribe standard safety appliances for freight cars and that authorizing the commission to investigate all railroad accidents and wrecks.

Mr. Esch also introduced and had passed the law forbidding the employment of trainmen and telegraphers for excessive hours.

He supported in the committee and in the house the law requiring the use of the safety ash pan, that regulating the transportation of explosives, that requiring inspection of locomotive boilers, and the employers' liability law applying to interstate carriers. He has favored and voted for the workmen's compensation act.

He introduced and supported in three congresses a bill to prevent the watering of stocks and, in the present congress, a bill providing for the physical valuation of railroads, which has been favorably reported.

Mr. Esch has for years supported and voted in favor of a tariff commission with full power to investigate and report to congress facts upon which tariff laws may be intelligently based.

He favors and has favored large reductions in the present tariff rates. He voted for free lumber, hides, oil, petroleum products and iron ore, and favored reductions on wools, cottons, steel and other schedules. When he could obtain nothing better he voted upon final passage, with many other progressives, such as Senator Bourne, and nearly the whole Wisconsin delegation, for the Payne-Whidson bill. He voted for the cotton bill but when the senate added the chemical schedule he, with many other progressives, voted against it because the amendment was so loosely drawn.

He voted for the conference report on wool and against reciprocity. Mr. Esch was one of the twenty-eight original insurgents against the old house rules and was chairman of their first meeting and has worked steadily for reform of the rules.

He worked and voted for popular election of senators.

He supported the corrupt practices act, requiring publicity of campaign subscriptions and expenditures and forbidding contributions by corporations.

He was one of the first signers of the call to Senator La Follette to become a candidate for the republican nomination for the presidency in 1912.

Mr. Esch has introduced and had enacted into law more legislation for the protection of labor and human

HOUSE HUSTLES TO END SESSION

Lower Body Plans to Shove Many Measures Through Before Adjournment

WILL PASS THE PANAMA BILL

Compromise Adopted by Senate to Go and Battle-ship Fight Comes Next

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—By a vote of 79 to 150 the house late this afternoon, refused to agree to the senate amendment to the naval appropriation bill, providing for two new battleships. The house sent the bill to conference offering a compromise of the democratic caucus upon one battleship. Eight democrats bolted the caucus agreement and voted for two battleships. Seventeen republicans voted against providing two vessels.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—A "get away" clean up of legislation was the house program today. The hour of convening was jumped ahead to 10:30 because of the lengthy program and the members' eagerness to adjourn at the earliest possible date.

Final passage of the Panama canal bill, submission to the senate of a compromise upon the naval appropriation bill to provide funds for one monster battleship; passage of a new legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill providing for abolishment of the commerce court, and ouster of Representative Charles C. Bowman (Rep., Pa.) comprised today's schedule. Only slight opposition was expected to delay proceedings.

T. R. ATTACKS WILSON.

REVERE BEACH, Mass., Aug. 17.—In a speech on social and industrial justice, Col. Roosevelt today referred to Woodrow Wilson as having referred to the democratic platform in such guarded phrases as to convey the impression of neither repudiating nor supporting it. He coupled President Taft with Lorimer and discussed the progressive attitude toward the judiciary.

STEAMER SINKS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—A wireless dispatch to the California-Atlantic Steamship company from Balboa, Panama, says a huge ship there collapsed during the night, sinking the Pacific mail passenger and freight steamer Newport. The entire cargo was lost, but it is believed none were killed.

BOB DECLARES PARTY LOYALTY

Senator La Follette Attacks Roosevelt and His Bull Moose Crew

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—In a spontaneous outburst during debate of the president's wool tariff veto in the senate, Senator La Follette yesterday afternoon attacked the new progressive party, and swore new allegiance to progressive republicanism.

Ignoring the dramatic appeal by Senator La Follette to repass the wool bill the regular republicans and some progressives voted to uphold the president's veto. Six progressive republicans—Bristow, Clapp, Crawford, La Follette, Poindexter and Works—joined the democrats in support of the motion. Cummins, Kenyon and Borah supported the veto. Early in the afternoon the senate in a similar move to pass the steel tariff bill over the presidential disapproval was defeated by a vote of 32 to 39, the division being on strict party lines.

Holds Attention of Senate

The "original insurgent," quivering with emotion, with clenched hands and strained face, poured out a flood of impassioned oratory that kept the floor and galleries of the senate rapt and silent.

Standing in the well of the chamber, Senator La Follette assured his associates that he intended to "keep up the fight in the republican party to make that party really progressive" and to "keep on until the last bell rings and the curtain falls."

LABOR LAWYER ACQUITTED IN HALF AN HOUR

Jury Is Out on Case but 37 Minutes Before a Verdict Is Reached

THE ATTORNEY IS SET FREE

Judge Releases Defendant Immediately After the Decision Is Read

HIS WIFE IS HYSTERICAL

Mrs. Darrow Breaks Down when Judge's Charge Favors Her Husband

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 17.—Clarence S. Darrow is innocent of the charge of bribing jurors in the McNamara murder case. This was the verdict returned at 9:55 a. m. today by the jury which for two months has been hearing evidence in the case before Judge Hutton of the superior court. It took the jury only 37 minutes to reach a verdict. As soon as the foreman read the verdict, Judge Hutton discharged Darrow and released his bail.

Darrow Nervous

The scene when the verdict was returned was most dramatic. After listening to the judge's charge which lasted an hour and was very favorable to the defendant, the jury retired at 9:18 a. m. At 9:50, just thirty-two minutes later, the jury rang its bell calling the bailiff. Darrow, who had been pacing up and down the room chewing a lead pencil nervously, stopped short in his walk as Judge Hutton mounted to the bench. A moment later the jury entered the box led by Mr. Williams, foreman.

Mrs. Darrow, who had been hysterical since the jury went out, trembled like a leaf as the court asked Williams: "Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?"

"We have, your honor," replied the foreman.

"You may read it," said the court. There was a tense delay while the court waited for Clerk Smith and District Attorney Fredericks to arrive.

"I waive the polling of the jury," Darrow finally said.

"Not guilty," Williams immediately said.

Cheers and wild applause broke out in the court room and down the corridors of the Hall of Records went the news. Mrs. Darrow, sobbing with joy, embraced her husband, who merely sighed deeply and looked around the room.

Clerk Smith arrived at this moment and Judge Hutton said:

"Mr. Clerk as you are here, you may poll the jury."

Clerk Smith did so and read the verdict, saying: "Gentlemen of the jury, is this your verdict?"

"It is," roared the twelve men in chorus.

Congratulate Darrow

Friends of Darrow immediately crowded around to congratulate him. The strain over, many of those in the room burst into tears as they shook the acquitted man's hands.

As soon as the court convened today Judge Hutton began reading his charge to the jury which will place the fate of Clarence S. Darrow in the hands of the twelve men who have listened for several months to testimony produced in an effort to involve the Chicago lawyer on charges of jury bribing. The charge favored Darrow.

The closing argument for the state—a terrific arraignment of Darrow by District Attorney John D. Fredericks—was concluded late yesterday. Fredericks' argument was frequently interrupted by jurors or attorneys for the defense who wished to ask questions.

In his final summing up Fredericks alleged that Darrow had been guilty of twenty-two separate crimes in preparing the defense of the McNamara brothers.

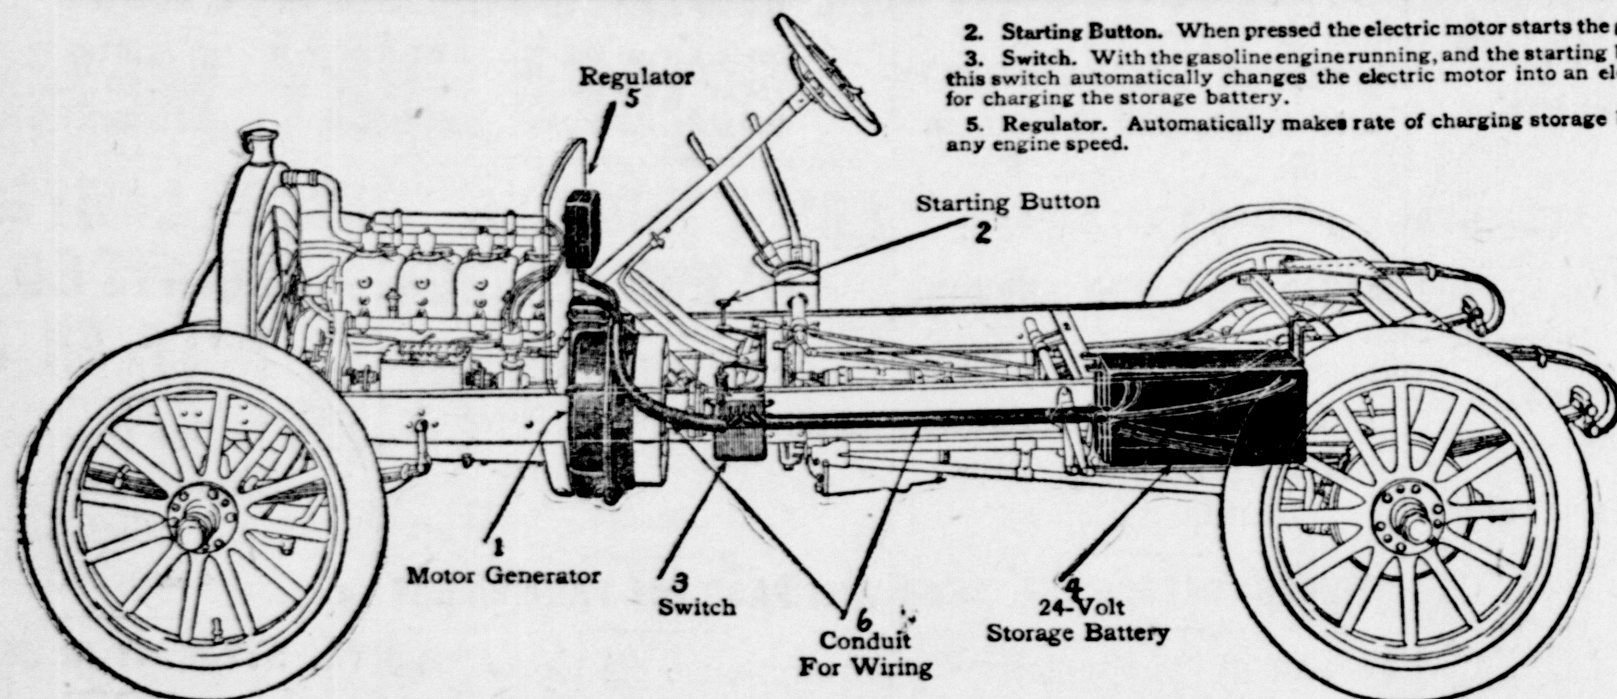

Darrow was plainly nervous when he entered the court room today to face the greatest crisis of his life. Judge Hutton mounted the bench at 8:15 and the roll of the jury was called. The court immediately began reading the charge.

After the verdict Juror Dunubar slapped Darrow on the back and cried: "Mr. Darrow, this is the happiest moment of my life."

Rambler 1913 Cross Country $1700

With UNIT GASOLINE and ELECTRIC MOTOR

The Cross Country unit gasoline and electric motor showing location of all parts

HERE is a car destined for leadership in 1913. The new unit gasoline and electric motor is bound to give it first place.

The 1912 Cross Country was a popular success. Big sales prove that. One hundred and five per cent—our increase for the year—is a record.

Gasoline and Electric Motor

Think what this new motor means. It combines two widely used and thoroughly known power principles; one, in the perfected Cross Country gasoline engine; the other, in the commonly used electric motor generator.

Now you don't have to get out of your car to start or to light the lamps. Press the button—you start.

Press another—you light the lamps.

Read the explanation. Then see this new motor. The idea is so simple—the results so pleasing—you will wonder why it has not been done before.

This gasoline-electric motor consists of a single unit, combining a 38-horse power, four-cylinder gasoline engine with an electric motor generator.

There is no need for a separate starting device.

From the instant you press the starting button this electric motor generator is creating and storing electric energy for future use.

The usual cast iron fly wheel of an ordinary engine is left off.

Noiseless and Simple

The parts forming the electric motor generator take the place of the fly wheel.

It saves weight, bearings, chains, gears, complicated wiring, and operates as silently as any electric motor.

The only wearing parts, other than those of all gasoline engines, are the motor generator brushes which are six times the necessary size—ample for many times the life of the car.

Except to put water in the batteries it requires no attention.

Ten Inch Upholstery

The Cross Country in appearance had no equal.

In comfort we thought we had reached the limit—but now we have added ten inch upholstery. Of power it has sufficient for every emergency.

It's so flexible you can travel on high gear no faster than a man usually walks, or fifty miles an hour.

To steer is but to touch the wheel. It guides so easily, you are conscious of no effort. Experienced motorists instantly appreciate this advantage.

10,000 Mile Guarantee

Of its reliability there can be no question, vouched for by our ten thousand mile guarantee.

Jeffery service is a reality. It has been gradually perfected by twelve years of actual field work and is now backed by an organization of more than four hundred dealers and branches. One of them is probably near to you.

We make ninety-six per cent of our parts and now have a half million dollars invested in duplicate parts for the benefit of owners.

Ask your banker or consult Dun and Bradstreet as to the responsibility of this company.

G. A. R. VETERANS AFTER IMPOSTORS

Law Prohibits Wearing of Buttons by Other Than Bona Fide Members

A state wide effort is about to be made by members of the G. A. R. to punish all persons wearing G. A. R. buttons who are not entitled to do so, according to members of the local posts. They declare that the state is overrun with impostors who pose as civil war veterans and procure money and assistance through sympathy thus aroused.

The following general orders which were received from the state headquarters at Madison were read at the last meeting of the local posts of the G. A. R.:

"Headquarters G. A. R., Dept. Wisconsin, Madison, July. General Orders, No. 2:

No. 1.—The department commander calls special attention to section 1423a, revised statutes of Wisconsin, which reads as follows: 'Any person who shall willfully wear the insignia or any badge of the G. A. R. or use the same to obtain aid or assistance thereby within this state, unless he shall be entitled to use or wear the same, under the rules and regulations of the department of Wisconsin of said army, shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not more than thirty days or fined not exceeding twenty dollars, or both such fine and imprisonment.'

"Section 5, article 9, P. V. rules and regulations of the G. A. R., is as follows:

"No person shall be entitled to wear a badge or button of the G. A. R. unless he is a member in good standing of the G. A. R."

GIRL IS ATTACKED BY TWO STRANGERS

GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 17.—While the men of the house were busy with chores, two strangers approached the home of John Sisimlich, Kewaunee, with the intention of robbing the house, but owing to the plucky fight shown by Anna Sisimlich, they were forced to depart without anything of value.

The girl was knocked unconscious and was just recovering when her brothers returned. A posse was formed and after a short search the two were captured.

Justice Ray adjourned their case until the fall term of the circuit court.

WATER IN HIGH COST OF LIVING

We all know that one of the biggest items in the high cost of living is railroad transportation charges.
Generally, for instance, when we drink a glass of milk we pay something for railroad transportation.
But what would you say to getting your milk in powder, weighing about 87 per cent less than the liquid milk? You would pay no freight on the water Mrs. Moo-Cow puts in it
—in fact, you would add the water yourself when you wanted your glass of milk. Millions of dollars a year could be saved in freight charges
alone if we took the countless tons
of plain water out of things we eat.
A start has been made by a Chicago concern which is drying out 87 per cent of the weight of milk. The powder which results is at present used only by bakeries.

The department of agriculture in a forthcoming publication is to proclaim its support of this plan of lowering prices and has selected as an example the immensely important German industry of potato drying, believing that conditions in this country are more than ordinarily favorable for the rapid adoption of an European expedient of economy.
Only 20 to 25 per cent of the potato is solid matter and upon every ton shipped freight is paid upon 75
to 80 per cent water and the cost is borne by the farmer from his profits and the consumer from an already overtaxed pocketbook.

The optimism of the exponents of the potato drying industry is based upon the fact that the same machinery used for drying sugar beet leaves and pulp can be employed at other seasons for drying potatoes. As sugar beet growing is already an important industry in about sixteen states, but little extra expense would have to be incurred to test the practicability of this plan. Most of the important beet sugar states are also great potato growing sections and the two industries can go hand in hand, as they have in Germany,
where the great development of the beet sugar industry has led to a tremendous development of potato growing. It has been found, moreover, that the cultivation of sugar beets increases the yield of all other crops grown in rotation with them,
this increase varying from 25
to 50 per cent with different crops and amounting to 46 per cent in the case of potatoes.

The sugar beet itself is one of the products to which the process of economy through extraction of surplus water has been applied and a business of $2,000,000 a year has been built up in the past few years

in dried beet pulp for stock feeding.

Another advantage that will come from the introduction of the drying industry in connection with such a crop as potatoes, as is pointed out by the department of agriculture, is that the present uncertainties of the crop would be removed and both the producer and consumer would be benefitted. The grower would have a more reliable market and the present wide fluctuations in prices would be avoided.

LET PRINCIPLE BE THE GUIDE

The stalwart-inspired Karel campaign was indeed unfortunate in having staked its all upon the supposed unpopularity of the income tax at the very moment when understanding and appreciation of that law was crystallizing to its advantage. The showing made by the tax commission suggests that before the September primary the measure will have become overwhelmingly popular with the masses, while those who have complained of it will oppose its repeal because, with the hitherto untaxed chattels now unearthed, a resumption of taxation of personal property would add to their tax burdens.

The thing Wisconsin democrats should keep before them is that Woodrow Wilson, the democratic presidential nominee, who refused to permit the democratic national convention to condemn the state income tax, is in favor of every one of those measures which Judge Karel in his legislative career opposed. For emphasis, we quote Mr. Karel's legislative record:

Railway commission bill. Karel voted to indefinitely postpone bill—
Assembly Journal, page 833.

Karel voted "no" on engrossment
of primary bill—Pages 588 and 627.
Karel voted with stalwarts on all motions relating to primary election law, and voted for indefinite postponement of same (page 589) and voted "no" on final passage of bill—

pone bill providing for the appointment of a railway commission—Assembly Journal, page 833.

ment and third reading of ad valorem
taxation railroad bill—Page 1088.

Karel voted for indefinite postponement of bill providing for higher taxation of railroads—Pages 980
and 981.

Karel voted for indefinite postponement of 2 cent fare bill—Page

Karel voted against the engross-ment of the anti-pass bill (page 183)
but voted for final passage of bill—
Page 209.

Karel voted for bill lowering exemptions of wages of workmen—
Pages 753 and 754.

The friends of Mr. Karel say he was a boy at that time. He is not a boy now, yet he has not declared himself for any constructive progressive policy, and his whole attitude is antagonistic to the progressive program for which his opponent, A.
J. Schmitz, stands. The best evidence that he is a reactionary is the ardent support being given him by the Milwaukee Sentinel and Free Press, the La Crosse Leader-Press,
Eau Claire Leader and other flat-
footed stalwart republican papers.
Democrats have a right to assume that a candidate acceptable to these papers cannot be acceptable to Mr.
Wilson, nor can he be in accord with the views of those progressive democrats who carried this state for the New Jersey governor. With the possibility of a third ticket of bull moose candidates entering the field
to weaken republican chances, democrats should not be willing to turn their state organization over to the hopelessly defeated republican reactionaries.

The Mt. McKinley searchers who only reached two-thirds of the way to the top failed to see even a footprint of old Doc Cook, but it was just as cold up there as Doc Cook said it was, which proves something.

There is some talk of reviving the kerosene torchlight processions this year. If this is done John D. ought to be willing to contribute a little bit to all the parties.

A ninety-pound woman in London
thrashed her husband, who weighs 200. Of course, in such a case, a man has to stand and take it.

Mr. Taft certainly is the ultimate consumer of secretaries. He is now on his fourth.

And Christmas only 19 weeks away.

People have vague ideas about the devil, many seeming to believe he looks a good deal like a corporation.
There are a good many patriots
who don't care as much for John Brown as they did when we were young.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Every Day Heroism
The men who take the early car
When dawn still tints the eastern sky—
They are the doers! Near and far They rear the structures broad and high.
Above their web of steel they go While the onlooker holds his breath;
They light their stubby pipes and blow
Smoke clouds into the face of death.

They drive the force that never fails
And make the world a dwelling place;
They grip the throttle, lay the rails
And stoke the fires for the race.
For they are hard and gaunt and brown
And straight and sinewy and fine;
They are serene though dangers frown,
These men on the world's firing line.

Heroes indeed! But what of her.
The little woman good and sweet,
And brave as Spartan women were,
Who knows not when along the street
The dread, slow march of men may come Bearing the purposeless form and still
Of him she loves when forces dumb Or roaring gears have had their will?

Each day she fills his dinner pail,
And never heroine of old
Who buckled on her warrior's mail
Possessed a truer heart of gold.
The gentle thoughts for him who strives,
These hearten him to conquests
fine—
Great is the courage of the wives
Of men on our day's firing line.
—St. Paul Dispatch.

The Commercialism of the South
Stuart C. Leake, the railroad man, had to wait for a train in Columbus,
Ga., one day, and he put in the time
by hiring a carriage for a drive
through the town and its neighborhood. Naturally, he was anxious to learn all he could about the place,
and, to do this, he addressed some questions to the old colored man who was driving him.

"Uncle," he said finally, "what are the principal lines of business here, the chief products of the town?"

"I callates, boss," said the old man, "dat de principal products in dese parts is pedegree an' de paril-linary spring practicing of de big league ball teams."—Popular Magazine.

Hadn't Heard of Socrates
A big policeman who walks a beat near the Greek settlement in the north side always gets angry when he hears this told at his expense, but there are those who will vouch for its truth.

About a month ago a young man
very much excited rushed up to this policeman and exclaimed:

"Say, Jim, did you hear about a Greek by the name of Socrates taking poison?"

"I did not," Jim replied innocently. Then he added, thoughtfully stroking his chin, "Sure, that's the first time I ever heard of a Greek going up against anything stronger than what he sells in his own coffee houses. I guess I'd better look this up and bulletin all the details to the department. It's an unusual case."—Kansas City Journal.

Meeting Emergencies
Senator Dixon was condemning a piece of political deception.

"The thing was as flagrant," he said, "as the railway case."

"Two men, one of them very short,
were passing through a station toward the train gates when the biggest one was heard to say:

"I've got a half ticket fur ye,
George. Yer so little ye'll pass all right."

"But," protested George, "how about my beard?" and he twiddled
his chin beard nervously.

"Oh," rejoined the other, "tell 'em
it's a mole."—Minneapolis Journal.

Half Mourning
There are drawbacks even to being the wife of a wealthy man, as Mrs. Millyuns found out.

Although they have only been married a few weeks she hardly ever
has a quiet hour with her husband.
It's business from morning till night,
and in the evening he only begs for peace and rest.

So the other day she came down
to dinner in a somber black frock.

"Why on earth, dear, are you wearing that frock?" asked Mrs.
Millyuns, eyeing her gown with distaste. "Why, it's almost half mourning."

"Of course it's half mourning," replied the lady with much mourning. "Don't you always say when you come home from the office that you are half dead?"

Ventilation Test
A single way to tell whether your room is properly ventilated is to place a wide-necked bottle of water into which you have put half an ounce of lime water, in the room, letting it remain uncovered over night. If in the morning the lime water is milk
the ventilation is bad. If the lime water becomes milk on your covering the bottle mouth with your hand and shaking the vessel, the ventilation is not sufficiently good. If the lime water remains clear, the air of that room is pure.

FOUGHT WITH RAILROAD TRAIN Herd of Infuriated Bulls Held Their Own in Combat With Masterpiece of Man.

At a point on the railway line between Mirabel and Canaveral, on the Spanish side of the boundary line between Spain and Portugal, there once occurred an odd sort of bullfight.

A train had just come out on a sweeping curve from the hills and down upon a little plain when the engineer saw directly before him a herd of bulls on the tracks. The engineer blew his whistle vigorously and all the bulls fled, with the exception of one great fellow, who made straight for the train with horns lowered and roaring defiance.

It was too late to prevent a collision
and the bull was killed, but his carcass, lying under the wheels of the locomotive, prevented the train proceeding. Passengers and crew united to clear the track. In the meantime the great herd of bulls, scenting the blood of their dead leader, came flocking back, pawing and threatening. The peeper they came the more infuriated
they grew, and finally they charged like a whirlwind on the little band of workers.

Then all the men abandoned their task and took refuge in the cars. The bulls followed them to the very steps, bellowing and pawing. Soldiers aboard the train tried to stampede the animals with stones. The bulls recoiled, charged again, recoiled once more,
and for two hours the battle raged,
victory now seeming to be with one side and now with the other. At last as night came on, the bulls withdrew and betook themselves to some distant shelter. Then the employees and passengers were able to set to work again. The track was cleared and the train proceeded on its way.

The MAN in the BROWN DERBY by WELLS HASTINGS Author of The Professors Mystery Copyright, 1911, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.

It seemed to me that Mr. Bond's kicks were growing rather feeble,
that in another moment they must detect the substitution, so that I gathered myself together and came down the little space of hall with a rush, pushing Mrs. Olsen roughly aside as I passed her, and giving the man with the slug-shot a blow that sent him against Doctor May-hew. I had no time now to stop for Mrs. Lathrop. She was in no immediate danger and I could come back for her, but Nancy was in the "dark room," a place, it seemed to me,
probably located in the cellar; so I ran the rest of the way down the hall, plunged down the stairs, and set about looking for a stairway
that would lead me into the basement. Above me I could hear Mrs.
Olsen calling loudly for help. I thought of the guards on the outside of the building, and running to the front door, made sure that it was locked, and dropped the great key into my pocket. The office door was closed now, but I threw it open and stepped in. A dark-haired young woman whom I took to be our little mercenary covered before me into a corner.

"Quick," I said, "show me where the dark room is."

"Oh," she moaned, "oh, oh! What have you done, what have you done? I did not know it was going to be like this. They will kill me for it, if they find out. Go away, oh,
do go away."

"Nonsense," I said, "no one is going to hurt you. Show me where that dark room is."

"I dare not," she said piteously.
"They will kill me, I tell you."

"They'll do nothing of the kind.
If you'll hurry, I'll see that you get out all right. Can the guard outside get in any way but by the front door?"

"Yes," she said, "there is a door in the back. The cook would let them in."

"Well, show me that first."

She shrank still farther into her corner, laughing and sobbing half hysterically; then, with a little scream, she pointed to the windward side of the building, where the face of the guard peering through the grating, looking at us both in fierce amazement. I picked the girl up in my arms and carried her, faintly
struggling, to the hall.

"Now," I said, "if you're going to save your precious neck, you'd better help and help all you can.
First show me that other door and then the dark room."

To my surprise she had stopped crying and, as we passed under the dim hall light, she glanced up at me with a sidelong flash of her black eyes.

"You're awfully strong," she said
as I set her down, as if she had made an important discovery, and slipping her hand into mine, she ran with me along the hall, passing through the one which bisected it at right angles and on toward the rear of the building, where she stopped
before another door with her hand
at her heart.

"Well," I said, "what is it?"

The hand which I held in my own tightened. "The cook," she said;
"what can you do with him?"

On the floor above Mrs. Olsen was still screaming, gathering vocal power, it seemed to me, with every passing second. I fumbled at the knob before me and, throwing the door open at last, stepped into the shadowed dimness of the great kitchen, pulling the maid in after me.

"He sleeps on a cot in the corner," she whispered; "shall I turn up the gas for you?"

"Yes," I said, and, dropping her hand, I closed the door after us, shutting out the growing pandemonium above.

In the sudden silence I heard the peaceful sound of a throaty snoring;
then the dim gas-jet leaped into full power and the snoring stopped with a rumbling snort. Under its brilliance stood our little mercenary,
her olive cheeks, still wet with tears,
now flushing like a pomegranate,
her primly dressed hair in some disarray, her black eyes snapping with excitement. She held her clasped hands high, leaning her cheeks against them, like a school-girl at the crisis of her first play, a vivid bit of color in the great raffered room. Her eyes flashed to mine with the same look I had seen in the hall, a smile stirred at her lips, and she slowly turned her head
and nodded toward the corner.

There, on a low cot, a big, blue-
black negro was sitting up, a barbaric figure in ebony, swathed in the voluminous folds of a red flannel
nightgown, a garment redder
and more vivid even than the great cavern of his slowly gaping mouth,
where a row of incredible teeth
gleamed and glistened. He rubbed his eyes sleepily and stared at me,
and rolled them solemnly around
to the girl under the gas-jet.

"Yassah," he said, "yessah. I see awake, sah." He was evidently too sleepy to have quite taken us in.

"Lock the back door, please," I said to the girl, "and bring me the key." While she ran to do it, I turned to pull down the shades.
There were no shades, I found, but better yet, there were heavy inside shutters, which unfolded across the windows, and which I had but to drop a bar in place to secure. As I shut the last one I saw the dim

TWENTY YEARS.
Makes a great difference in most women. They are troubled with "nerves"—they suffer from backache, headache, sleeplessness, a sensation of irritability or twitching, hot flashes, dizzy spells, or many other symptoms of female weakness. The local disorder and inflammation should be treated with Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets and the irregularity and weakness of the female system corrected and strengthened with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The strain upon the young woman or the woman of middle age—upon the nerve and blood forming structures—may be too great for her strength. This is the time to take this restorative tonic and strength-giving nerve and regulator. For over forty years sold by druggists for woman's peculiar weaknesses and distressing ailments. The one remedy so perfect in composition and so good in curative effects as to warrant its makers in printing its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. The remedy which absolutely contains neither alcohol nor injurious or habit-forming drugs.

Following letter selected at random from a large number of similar ones and cited merely to illustrate these remarks:

"In the winter of 1908, I became greatly run down and irregular," writes Mrs. Henry Scott, of Swan Creek, Mich., Route 1, Box 49. "I slowly but surely grew worse, and, at last, resolved to apply to the doctor for help. The doctor said I had inflammation, enlargement and laceration. I was in bed eleven weeks and got no better. The doctor said I would have to have an operation, but to that I would not listen. My husband purchased two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I started to take this remedy I could not walk across the floor, but after I had taken three bottles I could feel myself gaining, so I dropped the doctor and took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Only for it I think I would have been dead—I really believe it saved my life. I feel better now than in twenty years."

figure of the guard in the darkness outside; and in a moment more he tried the door which we had locked. Now, with the shutters closed, the place was like a fortress.

"Who ah yo' One o' they loony-tics?"

The big black was fully awake now, and stood like an impossible pillar of fire, based and capped with coal, beside the cot that, by some miracle, had held him. He was not only tall but monstrously fat, so that the voluminous red flannel nightgown was quite tight at his stomach. The girl beside me giggled nervously.

"No, I'm not a lunatic," I said. "Go back and go to sleep."

The negro rolled his eyes over me with growing suspicion and menace.

"Listen," he said; "who dat? Who dat a yellin' and a yappin' and a proclaimin'? Sound to Abraham like ole Mis' Olsen. What you-all want in Abraham's kitchen? Guess ah better go see what's the mattah."

"No, you hadn't," I answered.

"Who-all's goin' to stop me?" he rumbled, scowling at me with a wrinkled frown, where savage menace and a sort of minstrel impudence shared alike. "Who-all's goin' to stop Abraham? That's what ah want to know."

I took a step toward him, doubling my fists as I came.

"Get back in that bed!" I said.

To my surprise he gave a howl of terror that was half a shriek, and flopped down on his knees, fairly groveling before me.

"Oh, Lawd Gawd," he cried; "oh, Lawd Gawd! Save pore ole Abraham." Then rolling his eyes up to me again, "Please go wuffum yere, Mr. Devil. Don't put yo' red-hot hand on Abraham."

Adair and Hickey, to Appear at Majestic, Were Sensation of Last Season in Chicago

BILL IS A REAL WINNER

Every Act of the Opening Program Is Headliner on the Big City Circuits

Picked up last season in a small vaudeville house in Chicago where they were making a tremendous hit in popular songs, and now leading the bills in "big time" houses all over the country, is the rapid history of Adair and Hickey, the two attractive young ladies who are to appear on the opening bill of the Majestic theater next week. Janet Adair and Florence Hickey present a twelve minute act called a "Revelation in Ragtime," and according to the enormous vogue the two have obtained in the big cities, the billing is an accurate description of their work.

One of Many
This big act is only one of the many headliners that will start off the new season at the Majestic with Sunday's matinee. In addition there will be a scream of a comedy singing, dancing and talking act, presented by Davis, Allen and Davis. These three young people bill themselves as "Three Oddities." Their line of work is said to be a radical departure from the ordinary run of singing and dancing acts.

Also, the new bill will have one of the best comedy playlets that is holding the boards in vogue at the present time. This is "The Girl in the Pink Kimono," presented by the Carrel and Pierlot company. Mr. Pierlot, the star, is a familiar of the "Joys," and has been an expert assassin of the "Grooms" from his youth up. The story tells the humorous story of the reform candidate for governor who reforms for the sake of the job, and his efforts to prevent a saintly parson from getting "hep" to his private peccadilloes. It is a playlet with a racy style to it, and is a screamer for fun.

Husky Duo Due
In addition to these, there will be the Reros brothers, strong men and athletes, a recent importation from abroad. These strong arms present an act that is far and away beyond ordinary strong man work. It is nothing short of marvelous, if their prowess are to be believed, and they have been received with acclaim everywhere in the country.

Kent's comedy and musical seals do something never before attempted in vogue. They play musical instruments. While not virtuosos from a human standpoint, as seals they are really wonderful, and the act is sure to be a winner. Five of the sleek animals are used in the act.

Mr. Koppelberger has secured from Chicago Leroy Thornton, the noted soprano, who will sing spotlight character songs. Master Thornton has been procured for an indefinite engagement, and will probably appear at the Majestic for several weeks.

There will be three reels of motion pictures shown, headed by "The Geisha's Love Story," a Pathe Freres drama, in which all the actors are Japanese. The picture itself was taken in Japan. There are also a vitagraph comedy, "The Troublesome Stepdaughters," and one of the Pathe Indian pictures, "The Wooing of White Fawn."

Each of the teams has played several strong clubs this year and their victories over their opponents have plainly demonstrated that their nines are strong so one of the best games of the year will undoubtedly result when they meet tomorrow afternoon.

FIRE DESTROYS BIG WAREHOUSE

Number of Sleighs Are Destroyed when Hay and Straw Catches Blaze

HAD NO CHANCE TO SAVE IT

By the Time Fire Company Arrived Building Was Doomed; Save Near-by Barn

A fire of unknown origin which started at six o'clock last evening, destroyed the warehouse of the Thomas-Phalon company on St. Cloud street between Avon and Berlin streets and caused a loss of from $800 to $1,000 which is partly covered by insurance.

The warehouse together with a large quantity of hay and straw and some sleighs and other equipment which was stored there during the summer were quickly consumed by the flames which spread so rapidly that before fire company No. 2 could arrive the building was doomed.

The prompt response of fire company No. 2 and their speedy work in directing a stream of water on George Fisher's barn, which is but a few feet away from the warehouse, saved that building. When the company arrived it was evident that the warehouse could not be saved so they started in to save the barn which was blazing at one point. Three horses were in the barn at the time but these were taken out as were also the harnesses. A quantity of hay and other feed was destroyed by the flames and other feed was water-soaked and this loss together with the damage done the barn by the flames is estimated at $100 by Mr. Fisher who has no insurance to cover the loss.

The fact that Thomas & Phalon's warehouse was filled with straw and hay made the fire spread rapidly. For almost two hours the firemen directed streams of water on the structure. Although all the hay and straw were not burned all of it was badly soaked by the many streams of water so that it will all undoubtedly be lost. Firemen were on the scene long after the flames had been extinguished to prevent a new fire from breaking out as the straw smoldered for a long time. Several lines of hose were kept throwing water on the ruins last evening and this morning to prevent a new outbreak of the fire.

Soon after the fire broke out in the warehouse a small blaze was discovered on the roof of John Cooney's residence, 732 Avon street, but this blaze was seen before it had time to spread. It was easily put out.

MORSE COMING BACK

BANKER JUST OUT OF PEN ANNOUNCES HE WILL RUN A COASTING STEAMSHIP LINE

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 17.—That Charles Morse, former banker and New York ice king, recently released from the federal prison at Atlanta, has a good start back in the financial game was indicated here today when it was announced that Mr. Morse has completed arrangements for the operation of a steamship line between Houston, New Orleans and New York. Later he will take in Porto Rican ports.

Morse has been interested in the canal from Houston to the coast, which is now nearing completion. His steamship line will come into direct competition with the Southern Pacific Steamship system, operated by the Harriman interests.

DISCOVERS BLAZE JUST IN TIME

Upon returning from an automobile trip last night, B. Miller, 712 Caledonia street, entered his home to find that a fire was burning and that several articles of furniture had already been destroyed. He immediately threw the burning furniture outdoors. The fire was stopped, but it is considered fortunate that Mr. Miller arrived when he did.

The insulation in an electric light had been burned out. It was laid over a chair. It is thought that a short circuit resulted in this way and that this caused the fire. Several chairs, a carpet and a curtain were burned.

THOUSANDS of trees are being set out each year. 10,000 acres along this South Shore already under cultivation. Here you will find growing to perfection, apples, cherries, plums, grapes and all small fruits as well as all kinds of vegetables, grains and grasses. Over 100 cars of strawberries alone were shipped this season.

It is one of the most natural dairy sections on earth. Timothy, red top, red and alsike clover spring up as by magic. Along the roads timothy stands four feet high. Clover seed, hulled, yields five and a half to seven bushels worth $66.00 to $84.00 per acre.

The vegetable yield is something wonderful, potatoes planted between rows of trees in young orchards yield 300 bushels to the acre—records show as high as 750 bushels rutabagas and 1200 bushels turnips to the acre. Corn can successfully be matured in this district. All small grains have a wonderful growth.

Write today for full information and arrange to inspect the land personally. Our prices and terms can't be beat.

Hon. E. A. Mores, in a Speech in Congress in April, 1912, said in part: "Forty acres of upper Wisconsin land will produce more than 100 acres of land under dry farming. This land is now used in agriculture and horticulture purposes by any in the U. S. The climate is pretty nearly perfect. The rainfall is abundant and crop failures are unknown. Commercial fertilizers are abundant because the land contains the accumulated fertility of the ages. The average net yield per acre from cherry orchards is from $150 to $400 and apple orchards yield is nearly as great."

IMPARTING FRAGRANCE TO TEA

Species of Jasmine Flower Used by the Chinese to Give Beverage
the Desired Aroma.

It is estimated that the Chinese consume annually five pounds of tea for each member of the population. It grows in small patches around the homesteads, plantations being practically unknown. The leaves are picked by members of the family and dried in the sun, being subsequently handed over to the middlemen, who subject them to the process of firing. In the case of green tea the leaves are roasted almost immediately after they are gathered, and dried off quickly after being rolled into balls by hand and squeezed. There are usually three pickings—early in April, when the leaves are covered with a whitish down (a limited output known as pekoe); toward the middle of May and again in August. Brick tea is made by pressing the damp tea in a mold in the form of a brick, 8 to 12 inches long and about one inch thick. The fragrance of all scented tea is not natural, but imparted by firing the leaf with a sort of jasmine flower, called by the Chinese "moke-lee." In inferior teas the scenting flower is strewn over the top of the tea when packed and removed after a day or two. Flowery pekoes are white, velvety tipped teas with no fragrance and are unfermented.

Premature Burial.
M. Thoinot, professor of forensic medicine to the Paris Academie de Medicine, has been lecturing upon premature burial, an accident the fear of which is, perhaps, not so prevalent as it was in the days of Edgar Poe. He gave an interesting description of the many inventions devised for the avoidance of this, including the insertion of a breathing tube in the mouth of the corpse, which is brought through the lid of the coffin and projected from the grave. But he declared that no precaution was so satisfactory as that of delaying the burial until the signs of putrefaction are apparent. The provisions of the Code Napoleon, which ordain that no burial shall take place until twenty-four hours after death and inspection by the medical authority of the district, are, he said, entirely adequate on this point, and if they are carried out to the full, no need have any fear of being buried alive.

Of all "aptitudes," the mechanical is least likely to manifest itself in a feminine brain. The young woman whose visit to a locomotive works is described in Young's Magazine, was doubtless interested in what she saw, but her account of the processes observed leaves the reader to doubt her entire understanding of them.

"You pour," she told a friend, "a lot of sand into a lot of boxes, and you throw old stove lids and things into a furnace, and then you turn the red-hot stream into a hole in the sand, and everybody yells and shouts."

"Then you pour it out, let it cool and pound it, and then you put in it a thing that bores holes in it. Then you screw it together, and paint it, and put steam in it, and it goes splendidly, and they take it to a drafting room and make a blue-print of it."

"But one thing I forgot—They have to make a boiler. One man gets inside and one gets outside, and they pound frightfully, and then they tie it to the other thing, and you ought to see it go!"—Youth's Companion.

INSTALL ORGAN AT THE BIJOU

Innovation for Theaters to Be Presented to the Public in a Few Days

An innovation in music for motion picture theaters in La Crosse is soon to be introduced to lovers of the "movies." An immense pipe organ is being installed in the Bijou theater and in a few days will be completed. When the idea of using a pipe organ in a picture house was first presented to exhibitors, it was received with derision. But after its use by two or three men who foresaw its advantages, the other exhibitors were quick to see the practical side as well as the novelty of having this unusual instrument in their theaters.

The organ at the Bijou is one of the best that can be secured and contains a number of effects not to be found in the ordinary stock organ. It is being built to order by a firm of Milwaukee organ builders who make a specialty of installing organs in theaters, and when completed, will be a continual source of delight to lovers of good music.

Under the skilled fingers of Walter Goettinger, the famous blind musician, the motion pictures will take on a new interest, and patrons of this popular form of amusement will welcome the advent of the king of all instruments at the Bijou.

Jeffris, president of the Merchants and Savings bank, on Friday. The boy endeavored to cross the street from a grocery store to his home. Miss Jeffris was driving the car at a low rate of speed, when the boy stepped directly in its path. His neck was broken and his skull crushed. Miss Jeffris is prostrated over the accident. She is a sophomore at Beloit college.

MORE CHRISTIANS KILLED.

VIENNA, Aug. 17.—Through War Minister Vukotic, now in charge of the Montenegrin troops in the Turkish frontier, Montenegro has verified reports of another massacre of Christians by the sultan's soldiers. It is said the slaughter was entirely unprovoked and that men, women and children were hunted down like wild animals and shot or stabbed to death. Only girls wanted in Turkish harems escaped death.

GAUGING DOWNFALL OF RAIN

Scientific Instruments Have Made It
a Matter of Absolute Mathematical Precision.

Few people really understand how rain is measured. We often read in the newspaper that so many inches of rain have fallen during a certain period, but it is difficult to realize what an inch of it actually means. The British Rainfall association have years' records of rainfalls in all parts of the United Kingdom. They have reports from several thousand stations, which are sent in by people who "work" the business as a kind of hobby. There are several wooden structures now in use for measuring rain, and these are known as "gauges." The most skillful is a contrivance with a funnel at the top, through which the water passes into a cup-receiver. The weight of the rain automatically works a pencil. This marks on a sheet of paper wound round a cylinder, and when it has marked in this fashion two-tenths of an inch, the cup tilts over and empties the contents. The pencil returns to its former position, and the same little device is repeated incessantly until the rain ceases to fall, while the pencil continues to register on the paper attached.

NOTICE.
All water rents that are not paid by Saturday, Aug. 24, will be shut off the following Monday, Aug. 26. By order of the Board of Public Works.

Love as Poet's Inspiration.
Moore lived up to his theory that love's young dream is the sweetest thing in life. He never let one love get old before he supplanted it with a new. Carey had his Sally of "Sally in Our Alley" fame. Surrey loved Geraldine from the time she was a child in short dresses. Cornelle, the astute lawyer, fell in love and became the brilliant dramatic poet. Thus it seems that love, whether successful or otherwise, for a time inspires its votaries.

"It is true that the people directly in our rear are charming in the social sense, but unfortunately, they spend but six months' time at home. On one side of us are some poor but honest neighbors, whose children have taught mine innumerable little phrases with which they startle us from time to time. GIRL BELIEVED DYING

MARRIED MAN HELD AS RESPONSIBLE FOR ALLEGED DRUGGING OF COMPANION
ON JOY RIDE

ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 17.—With her sight and hearing probably totally obliterated, Mary Hartley, 19, today is not expected to recover from the effects of a joy ride. Carl East, a young married hardware dealer, who was recently arrested on a charge of attacking a young woman in Indianapolis because she refused to accompany him in his automobile, has been arrested here, charged with being responsible for Miss Hartley's condition. Doctors think she was drugged.

A charge of homicide will be placed against East, if the young woman dies, Superintendent of Police Pritchard declares. Police believe East is mentally deranged.

DEATH REPORT RIGHT

AMERICAN NAVAL OFFICE REPORTS ESTIMATE OF 3,000 DEAD IN TURKISH QUAKE TRUE

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 17. — Captain Upham of the American embassy's guard ship Scorpion reported by telegraph today that the previous estimate of three thousand killed in the earthquake in southeastern Turkey was approximately correct. He added that twice as many are suffering from most severe injuries. To approach the ruined villages is almost impossible, owing to the overpowering sickening odor from decaying corpses under the wreckage. Many of them are mere charred heaps, nearly unrecognizable as ever having been human habitations. Shocks continue.

The Hat Question In 1790.

The Handel festival was originally given in Westminster Abbey, and the official notice of 1790 announced that "no ladies will be admitted with hats, and they are particularly requested to come without feathers and very small hoops, if any." As ecclesiastical law demands that female worshippers shall cover their heads in church, this regulation was curiously anomalous. A suggestion in regard to ladies' headgear was also made by Sir Frederic Cowen in 1906, when he gave it as his opinion that the ladies might discover in their wardrobe some "extremely fascinating flat hats," which would not obstruct the view. The "fascinating flat hats" were, however, chiefly conspicuous by their absence, owing presumably (we write subject to feminine correction) to the fact that the flat hat was not among the fashions of that year.—London Globe.

WILL REVOLT TO BE RID OF YUAN

Sun Yat Sen Said to Be Preparing Revolution; President Is Marked for Death

SHANGHAI, Aug. 17.—President Yuan Shi Kai's execution at Peking of two generals, who had come from Hankow to oppose Yuan's continual acquisition of more and more power means an attempt at another revolution very soon, well informed Chinese here said today.

Sun Yat Sen is head of the powerful southern party which has considered Yuan all along a potential dictator. There is no question that it has the nerve to undertake his deposition.

The "dare to die," a bomb corps prominent in the last revolution, is said to have decreed his death already. The group has seldom failed to execute its sentences and so Yuan is in grave danger of assassination.

Yuan charged the executed generals with trying to start a revolution at Wu Chang. Sun's followers say they were simply formidable political opponents.

the time Mr. Esch secured the appropriation for the purchase of the land of Camp Douglas, and when it became evident that the Camp Douglas land could not be purchased and was not available for artillery range purposes due to the adoption by the government of indirect artillery fire necessitating a rolling contour of ground to fire over, I offered by wire to the war department officials my 5,000 acre ranch, free of cost for experimental purposes.

"Thereafter as a result of the use of the range by the government, the appropriations by the act of congress made available for purchase of the land at Sparta under the direction of the quartermaster's department at Chicago and in pursuance of my personal guarantee to war department officials, I collected and turned over to the government all of the present range comprising 4,106 acres excepting a few scattering government forests.

"Mr. Esch was not interested financially in the purchase or sale of the land to the government. All negotiations were completed by myself.

Esch's Interest Not Financial

"I paid the farmers the price demanded for their land on options from six months to two years old. Owners of land in every instance knew the purpose for which the land was being purchased. The price varied from $5 an acre to more than the government paid me an acre. The government paid me $10 an acre for about 80 per cent of this land, the balance was paid for at a rate of $12, $12.50 and $15.50 an acre upon the approval of the quartermaster's department at Chicago.

"The interest of Mr. Esch in this quarter was not a financial interest and he reaped no financial reward directly or indirectly to my knowledge. His interest was that of a public official performing a public duty and giving to his country its only federal reservation."

Detroit Receives Still Another Shock to Civic Pride Today Over Election

1,600 FAKE ENROLLMENTS

Colonization of Voters in Tenderloin Districts Is Uncovered by Burns Men

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 17.—Detroit received another civic shock today when it awoke to find that during the past week Burns detectives, working independently of the recent graft scandal in the city hall, have uncovered a colossal system of fraudulent enrollments, and colonization of voters for the primary election August 27. It is estimated that between 1,200 and 1,600 fraudulent enrollments have been made at the city clerk's office.

Under the primary law persons wishing to enroll were obliged to make an application and swear to it before a notary. The investigation being secretly conducted by Burns detectives has disclosed twelve colonies of voters from which places enrollments have been made of persons who are either fictitious or do not reside at the addresses given. Most of the colonies are centered about saloons in the Tenderloin district of the city.

held a reception while hundreds filed past and shook their hands.

The crowd became so great that Darrow, holding his weeping wife in his arms, was swept back against the wall near Judge Hutton's chambers.

Deputy District Attorney Ford said: "We are undecided whether to prosecute the charge that Darrow bribed Juror Bain."

Plan Other Charge

District Attorney Fredericks said: "I do not see why we should not prosecute the Bain charge. It is really a stronger case than the one just ended."

The Bain case is set for trial in the superior court at 2 p. m. Monday. Asked for an expression, Darrow said: "It has been a terrible ordeal and I feel a great sense of relief. Nobody who knew me could believe I was corrupt. The indictment could only have been returned under stress and excitement of the dramatic ending of the McNamara trial. I will go on doing all I can to help the poor."

Earl Rogers, chief defense counsel, said: "If they haven't had enough already, let 'em come ahead with the Bain charge."

NEW QUESTION IS RAISED IN COURT

An interesting question of jurisdiction was raised in Judge C. W. Hunt's justice court today by Frank Withrow, attorney for Mary Hanson against her divorced husband, Hans Hanson. Mrs. Hanson is suing Mr. Hanson to recover alimony which she alleges he has not paid since they were granted a divorce by Judge E. C. Higbee last fall. Attorney sought to have the case thrown out of court on the grounds that justice court has no jurisdiction in a suit to collect alimony granted by the circuit court. Attorney A. C. Wolfe for the defendant asserted that the supreme court has rendered disagreeing opinions on this question. Judge Hunt will give his opinion next week.

Steel Cars Keep the List of Fatally Injured Down to but One

VAN WERT, Ohio, Aug. 17.—Albert Bernard of Forty-fourth street and Lake avenue, Chicago, was fatally hurt and scarcely a person among the fifty-nine persons escaped without minor injuries, when six cars of the Pennsylvania eighteen-hour train, New York to Chicago, were derailed at Middle Point, six miles west of here, today.

The engine, observation and dining cars remained on the track. Two Pullman coaches turned over completely into a corn field. The train with Conductor John Walt, Engineer Matham, both of Fort Wayne, Ind., was running sixty miles an hour when the accident occurred. A spreading rail was said to be the cause.

A special train was made up at Van Wert and all of the injured were taken to Fort Wayne. According to officials of the road at Van Wert, no passenger, excepting Bernard, was fatally injured. A piece of broken rail penetrated the end of his coach and was thought to have struck him over the head, fracturing his skull.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 17.—One man was killed and four others injured when freight train No. 88 and a work train crashed into each other near Coulter station, on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, at 8 a. m., according to officials of the railroad here. The injured were rushed to the McKeesport hospital. The cause of the collision has not been determined. The dead and injured were laborers. Traffic was delayed for only a short time.

LA CROSSE WOMEN LOTTERY VICTIMS

More than $5,000 Said to Have Been Profits of Alleged Swindle

WARRANT OUT FOR AGENT

Hundreds of Women Victimized, Says Chief of Police Webber Today

A lottery scheme by which more than $5,000 has been taken from citizens of La Crosse came to light today following the swearing out of a warrant in District Attorney James Thompson's office against Herbert Fitzschell, alleged agent for the "People's Home Supply House company of Chicago." According to the statement of Alpha Bocks, 529 Johnson street, who swore to the complaint today, his wife was swindled out of $15 by Fitzschell by a scheme which is being worked generally throughout the city.

The method used to coax the housewives from their savings as outlined by Mr. Bocks is as follows:

"The agent came to our house and said that he represented the Home Supply company and that he was selling tickets for twenty-cent apiece. The tickets were sent and collected for every week. The premium which the lucky ticket entitled the holder to was represented as worth $15. The catch part of the scheme is promise held out that a person might draw the lucky ticket long before they had bought $15 worth of them. My wife bought sixty tickets, one every week, and then sent for the premium which she wanted. The company then wrote her that she would have to send $5 more to get it. Since that time the agent has not been around."

Chief of Police John Webber said today that the department had received several complaints of a like nature the last few weeks.

"I have ordered the men to look for these agents," he said, "but since the complaints have come in, we have seen no trace of them. We have found that hundreds of citizens have been taken in by the scheme and I believe that more than $5,000 was taken from the city by the agents of the company. I have not heard of anybody getting any of the promised premiums."

WEIS FUNERAL TOMORROW

Military Preparations Completed to Cope with the Expected Revolt in Ireland

DUBLIN, Aug. 17.—The government is fully prepared for trouble in Ulster, the Irish Times says today. The anti-home rulers may make good their threats of revolt. But their revolt will not last long because all preparations have been made for suppressing it with the utmost vigor.

"The proceedings of the Ulster rifle clubs are being watched with the keenest interest," concludes the Times, "and conferences are being held regularly between the heads of the military, the constabulary and the officials at Dublin castle."

CHICAGO TO HAVE NEW UNION STATION

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Chicago may have the largest and best equipped passenger terminal in the world if the plans for a new station, announced by the Pennsylvania railroad today, carry through. It was announced that a new union station would be erected on the square bounded by Adams, Canal, Clinton and Jackson streets, and that the old union station, just east of the new site, will be used as a suburban station. The cost of the new terminal will be $35,000,000.

He said he put poisons on rats in his mother's coffee pot.

CITY IS SAVING $12,000 ON WELLS

Cost of Land and Well Sinking Contract Over $12,000 Lower Than the Estimate

PROPERTY OWNERS PROTEST

Say They Will Refuse to Pay Assessment Unless Specifications on Street Are Followed

The financial account of costs on the new well system shows that already $12,616.12 has been saved on the original estimate of $425,000. The estimate for the purchase of land and the sinking of wells made by Engineers Alvord and Burdick was $32,947. The land was purchased for $9,000 and the contract for the sinking of the nineteen wells was let to Edward Roessler today for $11,330.88 making a total of $20,330.88 which is $12,616.12 lower than the estimate.

The original plans of Alvord and Burdick provided for fifteen wells but the council last night voted to change this number to nineteen. Mr. Roessler submitted his bid several weeks ago but the letting of a contract was held up. Since that time an increase in the cost of pipe and certain changes in the specifications and plans providing for deeper excavations, caused him to advance his price $25 for each well. The council decided to allow this and accepted his contract with instructions to start work immediately.

The special water committee submitted a report and resolution last night notifying the members of the council that the state board of health approved the plans and specifications of Engineers Alvord and Burdick and recommending the letting of the contract for the sinking of the wells.

Engineer C. B. Burdick submitted his plans and specifications in detail and went into full explanation of his preliminary sketches following which a general discussion took place.

Owners Protest
A protest, signed by the owners of property abutting Vine street between Sixteenth and West Avenue, remonstrating against the placing of over sized granite on the street in question and, declaring that they would pay no property assessment until the granite used complied with the specifications, was presented by Alderman Bartl. This was referred to the special street improvement committee.

According to the specifications for the size of granite to be used on this work, the pieces must be more than one inch and less than two inches in diameter. Members of the board of public works declared that the granite used by the La Crosse Stone company is over sized and as a result a conference was held by the board of public works and the officers of the stone company at which an agreement was reached whereby the property owners declare that if this is not done they will refuse to pay any assessments for street improvements.

Hirshheimer Appointed
H. J. Hirshheimer was appointed as a member of the school board, a vote of seventeen to four, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Orlando Holway. Mr. Holway presented his resignation at a previous meeting. Three nominations for the vacancy were made, Mr. Hirshheimer being nominated by Alderman Tarbox, Ori J. Sorensen by Alderman Torrance and Joseph Boschert by Alderman Mahoney. The first ballot resulted as follows: Hirshheimer 8; Sorensen 6 and Boschert 7. Alderman Torrance withdrew his nomination of Ori J. Sorensen in favor of Mr. Hirshheimer and the second ballot resulted in the latter's election.

The report of the special street improvement and financial committee relative to the repair of the La Crosse river bridge was adopted and a resolution carried providing for the laying of creosote blocks on the bridge. City Engineer George Bradish declared that the work will have to be done before September 15.

Upon a motion of Alderman Tarbox the city attorney and engineer were added to the street and alley committee for the purpose of investigating the laying out of alleys between Eleventh and Twelfth and Mississippi and Jackson and Eleventh and Twelfth and Market and Ferry streets. A dispute as to the land which is available for alley purposes is now being investigated and it was for this purpose that this resolution was introduced.

Mayor John Dengler presented a communication from the La Crosse Scrap Iron and Metal company protesting against a previous resolution instructing the board of public works to have junk removed from the street adjacent to their property. This was laid on the table.

Mayor Dengler's resolution for a one year's postponement of the laying of brick pavement on Front street from Vine to a point 230 feet north of Pine streets, was adopted. Alderman Bartl's resolution providing for an appropriation of $100 to defray the expenses of Dr. J. M. Furstman, city health commissioner during his attendance at the international congress on hygiene and demography to be held at Washington Sept. 20 and 21, was adopted. A resolution instructing the board of public works to notify the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul rail-

An ordinance fixing the location of the proposed oil plant on the north side, the tanks, buildings and warehouses, was referred to the committee on ordinances, streets, alleys and fires. Mahoney offered a resolution providing that a provision be included in all future sewer contracts and specifications by which the contractor will take charge of the removal of dirt.
A petition was received from the Gund Brewing company asking permission to erect an addition to a saloon building at Fourth and Badger streets. Alderman Mahoney's resolution, for the laying out of roads leading to the site of the proposed well plant, was adopted. Another resolution providing for a re-survey of a sidewalk on Hagar street by the city engineer was also adopted.
Alderman Tarbox offered a resolution for the transfer of $2,000 from the surplus of the sinking fund for the improvement of the causeway, which was referred to the financial and special street improvement committees. A similar resolution was defeated at a former meeting.

It's awfully hard for a woman to pretend not to know the things she knows she ought not to know. When a girl finally discovers her ideal man it's up to her to tame him and make a husband of him—if she can.

Some men are homeless, and some others are home less than they should be.

One way to judge a man's following is by the length of his funeral procession.

NATIONAL LEAGUE New York 7; Chicago 4

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—With Tesreau pitching superb ball, New York defeated Chicago, 7 to 4, Friday and evened up the series. The big right hand pitcher held the locals to three hits until the ninth inning, while the visitors drove two pitchers off
the rubber early in the game.

New York fell on Jimmy Laven-der, who started the game for Chicago and forced him to retire before he had pitched two innings.
Then Reulbach was sent in, but gave way to Cheney in the seventh after
New York had made four runs off
him. New York got a run off Cheney in the eighth and he was relieved by Toney in the ninth.

Tesreau was given brilliant support. Murray made two sensational catches, running back into the crowd and pulling down drives that otherwise would have gone for two base hits. The New Yorks ran wild on bases, stealing six off Archer and one off Cotter. Score: R H E

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

The Giants ditched the mad rush
of the Cubs with heavy stick work,
speed, Tesreau's pitching and Murray's sensational catches. New York today leads by six games.
The Reds chalk up their third victory over Brooklyn. The Dodgers outhit the winners two to one, but failed at crucial times to connect at all.
The Highlanders bid good-bye to the Tigers by trouncing them for the fourth time in five games. The contest was loosely played by both teams.
Four singles, a base on balls, after two men were out, and hope gone, gave the Athletics three runs in the eighth inning and the game.
Speed King Johnson beat the White Sox and took his fourteenth consecutive game yesterday. Only 29 men faced him, none reached third and just two scratched him. Four Senators circled the bases.
The Phillies bagged the fifth game in the Pittsburgh series, 5 to 3. Alexander's pitching and Magee's homer
did the work.
New York fans underwent mixed emotions today. While the Giants fought for the leadership at Chicago, the Yanks engaged in a deadly tussle for the cellar championship
at home.

MATTHEWSON TO HURL LAST GAME

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—It was conceded today that Christy Matthewson
would be McGraw's choice for slab
work in the final game of the Cubs-Giants series this afternoon. The crafty New York boss picked a winner yesterday when he sent big Jeff Tesreau to the box and it was admitted today that Chance is up against it in the matter of pitchers.
Chance, it is said, fears to work
Richie again, but may be compelled to use the "Lurid One." Rumor also had it that Toney, the come-back from Louisville, who was effective against the Giants last season, and who showed class in the final innings yesterday, might work.
"Doc" Semmens, the Cub trainer,
put in a bad night, and Tom Needham was in a pitiful condition yesterday. He had a cracked wrist and a game knee and unless the Doc has been able to patch him up probably won't appear today. Needham has a broken thumb and may be kept out of the melee. In that case the youngster, Cotter, will be elected.
Johnny Evers will be back in the game this afternoon.

FAN-ATICAL FANCIES

Now that it is becoming popular to have celebrations for the star
major league players, it might be appropriate for Detroit fans to set aside a day for Ty Cobb who, on August 30, will have completed his seventh year of big league baseball.
Cobb, who has perhaps done more than any other individual on the team to keep the Tigers near the top since he came to Detroit, joined the club on August 30, 1905. In the first game he played as a Tiger, the New York Highlanders were their opponents with Jack Chesbro, the famous spitball artist, on the slab.
Ty knocked out a two bagger in that game and did his share towards defeating the Gotham crew 5 to 3.

Since Manager Duffy of the Milwaukee club released Bruce Noel,
the former Oshkosh pitcher who was tried out by Pittsburgh, has dropped to the Marquette team of the Wisconsin-Michigan league. After a good start with the Brewers, Noel seemed to lose his effectiveness and his release followed soon after that.
According to one of the Milwaukee scribes, Bruce lost his nerve when in tight situations in a game. This same writer arises to remark that he wonders what would happen to the pitcher if he cast longing glances at the club house in some game

up north on which the fans have bet a bunch of money.

Ralph Capron, the famous University of Minnesota athlete, who was signed up by the Pittsburgh Pirates and turned over to Milwaukee, is now playing the outfield for St. Paul and he is hitting the ball all over the lot in addition to running wild on the bases. Capron started out like a whirlwind when he joined Milwaukee, and the fans in the Twin Cities are wondering whether he will slump now the same as he did while a member of the Brewers.

Clarke Griffith, leader of the Washington team which has been the surprise of the baseball world
this year because of its sensational playing, is not very strong for the sacrifice hit as a means of advancing a baserunner and his views are shared by Muggsy McGraw of the Giants, who also uses this play but seldom. On rare occasions Griffith allows his players to sacrifice but as a general rule he does not sanction it. Wolverton, leader of the New York Highlanders, is a strong advocate of the sacrifice, but whereas the Giants and the Nationals are pennant contenders, the Yankees are in seventh place. Now baseball critics are wondering whether the sacrifice hit is a good play or not.

BAD FOR HIS CONSTITUTION.

She: You said, before we were married, that my word should be law.
He: That was before I found out that the law was unconstitutional.

"Is this a dagger which I see before me?"
Macbeth.

The Squire Explains.

I WANTED a month of complete rest, where neither debtor nor creditor could find me, and so I hid me up to a village in New Hampshire and engaged quarters at the inn. I realized that as a stranger I should be an object of curiosity, and that every one would feel free to question me, and great was my surprise, therefore, when I found myself pretty severely let alone.

That is, no one asked where I came from, what my business was, how long I was going to stay, or any of the leading questions generally put to strangers. When I was ready to leave I said to the old Justice of the Peace who had dropped in every evening:

"See here, Squire, I can't exactly make you folks out. I've always heard that villagers were full of curiosity respecting a stranger."

"Yes, we be," he replied.

"But I have been here a month and no one has tried to pump me. What's the matter?"

"Well, sir, I'll tell you how it is," he said as he leaned back with a sigh of regret. "Here's me, for instance. I've just married my fourth wife, with my third hardly cold in the grave, and I've got to keep pretty quiet for awhile. There's Joe Hastings, who is suspected of stealing a cow, and he feels like keepin' his head shut. Deacon Saunders wanted to know all about you the very first day, but he is bel'n' sued for breach-of-promise and hasn't gab too much. There's about ten others who are wonderin' who you be and where you come from, but they've got quinsy, bronchitis or lockjaw and can't talk. Do you see through it, now?"

HE HAD AN OBJECT.

FROM the seashore hotel a wharf ran out a quarter of a mile to deep water, and on a hot day that wharf was the hottest place in the whole United States. I was loading on the shady veranda one scorching July afternoon when a male guest of the hotel started off down that roasting wharf with a fishpole over his shoulder. He was regarded with astonishment, but of course nothing was said. He had reached the end of the wharf and been fishing for half an hour when a woman came up to me where I sat and asked:

"Did you see my husband go down to the wharf with a fishpole?"

"I saw a man, ma'am."

"It was probably my husband. Would you be so kind as to go down and tell him I want him at once?"

I went down through the fiery furnace and gave my message. The man did not even look up.

A second statement brought no better results. Then I happened to notice that he had no line at all attached to his pole, and I said:

"Stranger, I have told you twice that your wife wanted you."

"Yes," he muttered.

"You seem to be fishing without any object."

"Don't you believe it!"

"But you have neither hook nor line."

"I know it, but I have an object, just the same."

"And—and—"

"It's hot as Hades, isn't it?"

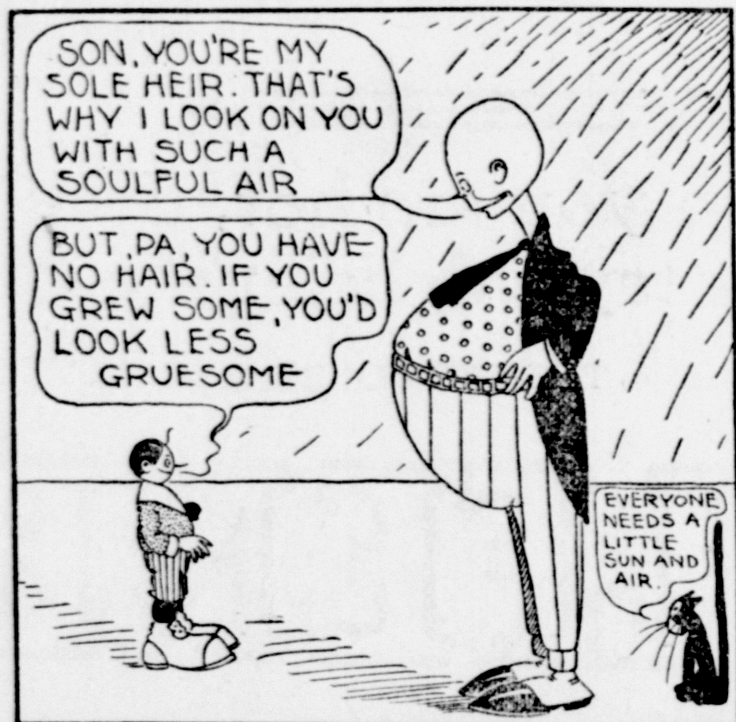

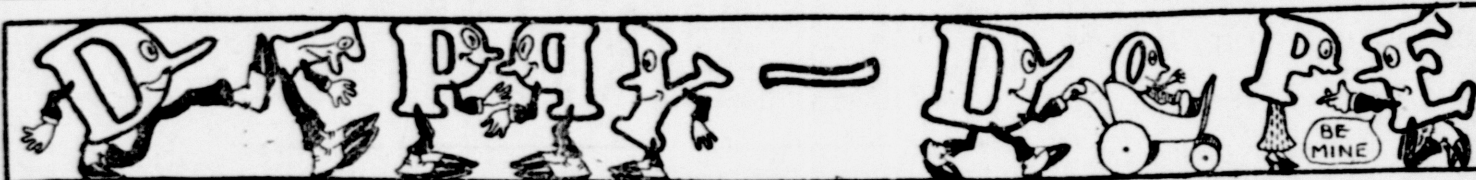

"You bet!"

"And it's July?"

"It is."

"Well, my wife wants me to promise her a new set of furs for next winter, and my object is to keep away from her until I get a sunstroke and keel over!"

THEY WERE TREMENDOUS.

THE two men that boarded the summer car together were somewhat excited over some event, and after finding seats together one of them said:

"You can't help but see, with me, that the issues are tremendous."

"Yes, I see," was the reply.

"His election would be a public calamity."

"It certainly would."

"I might almost say the fate of the country is at stake."

"But the honest voters must stand

by the country."

"They should, but in times of political excitement like this you can't count on what they will do."

"Let us hope he will be defeated and his party taught a needed lesson."

At this juncture a man on the seat ahead turned around and said:

"Gentlemen, excuse my butting in, but do you refer to the election or defeat of Taft?"

"Taft? Taft?" repeated the "tremendous" man with ill-concealed contempt.

"Then it isn't him?"

"Not by a jiffy! The gigantic struggle that may end the life of this Republic is whether I am to be elected one of the trustees of our village next fall, or whether a red-faced butcher weighing 230 pounds, who also wants the place, is to be elected and permitted to topple down the bulwarks of liberty. As I say, the issues are tremendous, positively tremendous."

That Old Fox.

ONE summer's night Uncle Rube was aroused from his sleep by a great out-cry at his henhouse, and, on arising, he found that a fox had been caught in a trap set at the door.

"Ding your buttons, but I've got ye now!" exclaimed the farmer as he hunted around for the ax. "I'll larn ye to come snoopin' around here after my hens!"

"Is it your idea to murder me in cold blood?" calmly asked Reynard.

"I'll murder ye in any kind of blood!"

"But don't rush the thing. You are a farmer, but you are also a business man, and I want you to hearkeer to me a minute."

"Wall, say your say, but don't be long about it."

"In the first place," said the Fox, "it's mid-summer, isn't it?"

"I'm not disputin' that."

"Last winter my pelt was worth a dollar and a half, owing to the condition of the fur. At this season you could not get 30 cents for it. There is a loss of $1.20 cents, at least, isn't there?"

"Looks like it to me," replied Uncle Rube, after a bit of mental arithmetic.

"Well, is it business to take 30 cents now when you could get $1.50 by waitin' 'till November?"

"No-o-a-p, I guess not."

"Then, as a business man, you will release me and trap me later!"

The thing was done, but after the farmer had returned to his bed he began to muse.

"Dog my cats, but there's some thing I didn't think of! While fox skins have gone down to 30 cents, the price for chickens has gone up to 75! And there's another. The price for fox skins may be $1.50 in November, but where's my fox! I'm a farmer and a business man, but—"

NEW CAR'S MOTOR IS ALSO DYNAMO

New Cross Country Car Is Equipped with Automatic Generator of Electricity

For 1913 the Thomas B. Jeffery company announces the cross country model in five different body styles, all on the same chassis, embodying the new unit gasoline and electric motor.

The body styles include the five passenger cross country at $1,700; four passenger cross country $1,700; the cross country roadster, $1,650; the Sedan for four passengers, all enclosed, $2,500; the Gotham, a five passenger limousine with two extra cab seats, $2,750, and a special touring body for five adults and two children, $1,900.

The new unit gasoline and electric motor a feature quite in advance of the day, combines two widely used and thoroughly known power principles: one, in the 38 h. p., four cylinder cross country engine, the other in the commonly used electric motor generator.

To start you merely press a button. Press another—the lamps are lighted. At the instant you press the starting button the electric motor starts.

As the gasoline engine is an integral part it is turning also at the rate of 200 revolutions per minute. There is no faltering or doubtful turning effort. It is quick, positive and continuous. After the explosions start the electric motor automatically changes into an electric generator and is creating and storing electrical energy for future use.

The construction and operation of the motor generator is practically proof. In the most exacting tests and even with severe abuse the engineers have been unable to injure it. The entire device is thoroughly dependable; so simple that a woman who does not care to know about its construction can expect the same success with it as an electrical expert. The only attention required is the addition of distilled water to the battery.

The color of the 1913 cross country is light Brewster green; its wheels are 36x4 inches and it has a 120 inch wheel base. The car is trimmed in nickel with body, fenders and fillers of black enamel. Flush dash lamps add greatly to its appearance. Ten inch upholstery is a new feature.

The cross country is the most popular car the Jeffery factory ever produced. The sales increase for the past year has been 126 per cent.

Stoney McGlynn, formerly a star pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals and until recently on the twirling staff of the Milwaukee club, is now slugging for Mantowoc in the Lake Shore league. He is still pitching good ball and many other good twirlers are in the same league. Cy Dahlgren, last years star pitcher of the Superior club of the Minny league, being in that organization also. Dahlgren is the property of Cincinnati, but he refused to report to the Reds.

That J. Franklin Baker's timely and wonderful hitting in last year's world series was not luck as some claimed, is shown by the frequency with which he has been clouting the ball all season. The great third baseman of the Athletics is hitting about .350 and his batting is winning many games for Connie Mack. His hitting is featuring the play of the world's champions and he has won many a game this season by just such hitting as brought about the downfall of the Giants in the world's series.

Finding the Drowned.

Occasionally one reads that, when human bodies are thought to be in rivers and cannot be found, "a loaf of bread has been floated down the stream." But very few people have the least idea what connection there is between bread and the finding of bodies. When the river has been dragged without result, a loaf of bread is cut in two, a place hollowed out in the middle, and a quantity of quicksilver inserted. The two halves of the loaf are then fastened together again, and the bread is thrown into the water in the place where the body is supposed to be. Without fail the loaf floats along until it reaches the vicinity of the body, and then revolves quickly, hovering over the spot.

"This Is Your Show."

The late Sir George White, defender of Ladysmith, was a strong enough man to take responsibility for failure; he was a strong enough man, too, to give credit to his subordinates for good work done. The first time I saw him was at Elandslaagte. The battle was well in progress. General French was elaborating one of the most brilliant affairs of the South African war. Late in the afternoon Sir George White and his staff rode on the battlefield, and had not been there five minutes before a shell fired from one of the Maxim-Nordenfelts which the Boers captured from Jamieson at the time of the raid, but which were detained by nightfall to be in our hands, plowed up the ground within a few yards of his horse. Almost simultaneously French hurried up and drew rein before the chief to surrender command. "No you carry on," said Sir George, "this is your show."—London Daily News.
